USING STERILIZERS TO BEST ADVANTAGE

Since wartime conditions limit the supplying of new sterilizers to civilian hospitals, obviously the best solution for the present is to utilize to best advantage the existing equipment in the hospital. In this connection, the advantages of a central sterilizing and supply room in the hospital are forcefully emphasized.

Centralization results in marked economy of materials, supplies, equipment, personnel, and supervision. Autoclaves, technical equipment, and supplies can be grouped in one location under centralized responsibility and will serve all departments and floors of the hospital, giving full time use when necessary.

Our engineering and planning department will gladly assist in arranging for central service or other facilities to expedite hospital work under today's difficult circumstances.

The Catholic Hospital and School of Nursing at the End of 1943

Introduction

THE theme of the Twenty-Ninth Annual Convention of the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada, as carried out in the program of the meeting, has, without any formal action on the part of the Association, and without deliberative discussion, become the expression of a policy for the Association and for its member hospitals: "Wartime Preparation for the Post-War." Not as if there is anything inherently novel in the thought expressed in these few words; not as if these words imply anything distinctive of the Catholic hospital; but a study of the present-day situation cannot fail to reveal to the Catholic hospital that its place in the hospital field of the future must necessarily be greatly different from the place it has occupied in the past.

There has been a noteworthy and a gratifying increase in the number of Catholic hospitals, in the number of beds in these institutions, and particularly in the number of patients, since the publication of the last Directory in June, 1943, but that increase may be all too readily dwarfed by the vastly greater increase in the total hospital facilities of the United States, if not also of Canada.

At a time such as this, undoubtedly a transition period, but which already foreshadows the events in the hospital field, the value of accurate statistics is more important than during a period of normal though unobtrusive growth. During a period of normal growth, policies adjust themselves almost automatically to increases of various kinds. During a period, however, when the growth-curve rises sharply, adjustments in policies have a tendency to lag, and necessary modifications may thus be determined precipitately and without due consideration, almost with frantic haste. Policies may completely fail of adjustment and thus leave an institution like a hospital, altogether unprepared to meet the challenge of a changed world.

There are not wanting in the Catholic hospital field ample indications that both these tendencies are actually operative in our institutional membership. On the one hand, the fear has been expressed in many localities that by reason of the dominant development of the tax-supported institution, the voluntary institution may become a relatively unimportant fraction of the hospital field of the future. In justification of such a fear, the decreasing percentage of Catholic institutions of the number of all hospitals in these two countries is pointed out. This attitude overlooks, altogether, the fact that the increase in the number of Catholic hospitals, just at present, is so pronounced that, if studied in itself and without relationship to the general field, it must be considered as being indicative of an unusually vigorous life. On the other hand, there are also some of our institutions which have been so preoccupied with their own internal and domestic problems, arising from the social realities of the present, such as shortages of manpower, overcrowding of facilities, and operating restrictions that they have had little or no inclination to keep themselves alert to the rapidly changing conditions of the total field.

For these reasons and many others equally as important, the publication of the Catholic Hospital Directory and of this brief analysis of the status of the Catholic hospital field today must be considered particularly significant. The stability of the Catholic hospital depends, it is true, to a large extent, upon the same factors which influence the stability of any other hospital. An effective desire for a high level of professional excellence, unstinted devotion to community interests, progressive, scientific advances in the care of the sick, all these are no less significant in a Catholic hospital than they are in any other hospital. The Catholic institution, however, has this additional factor as a guarantee of its stability, the faith of those who work in and minister to the hospital in furthering the ulterior and the perennially modern purpose of the institution, purposes which are old and ever new, which belong equally to the past and to the future, which are conservative and yet eternally progressive.

To be sure, the Catholic hospital must concern itself with such present-day problems as federal and state support of private institutions; it must concern itself with the changing type of patient who avails himself of hospitalization facilities; it must interest itself deeply in the great problem of increasing revenue for the future to meet the contingent catastrophies that may lie ahead, but the Catholic hospital derives its sense of superiority from other sources as well. The Sisterhoods are not apt to relinquish, no matter what the strains may be, the work to which they have dedicated themselves at the cost of the greatest personal and institutional sacrifices, because they believe in that work; they hope through that work to achieve their temporal and eternal destinies and they love the activity with a holy passion because of the motivations that have urged them to enter upon these activities.

I. The Catholic Hospital

With reference to the enlargement of the hospital field, the following paragraph may be quoted from the President's Address presented at the Twenty-Ninth Annual Convention:

> "Between 1933 and 1943, the increase in the number of hospital beds amounts to more than 600,000, there being today, 1,649,254 hospital beds available for our population of 132,000,000 or one hospital bed for 80 persons of the population. In 1933, there was one hospital bed for 126 persons of the population. The number of patients admitted has grown even more pronouncedly. In 1933, more than 7,000,000 persons were admitted whereas in 1943, 15,000,000 patients were admitted to the hospitals of the country. In other words, in 1933 one person out of 170 of the population and in 1943, one person out of 88 of the population were admitted to a hospital. Again, the daily census of our hospitals in 1943 was somewhat in excess of 800,000 whereas, in 1943, the daily average census was in excess of 1,250,000. These enormous increases in a relatively short period of ten years and this increased utilization of our hospitals by the population indicate, as perhaps nothing else can, the increasing importance of hospital service and the constantly increasing function which the hospitals serve in our national life."*

These over-all statistics naturally suggest a vast number of questions and point towards the formulation of many problems in almost every field of national endeavor in which health and health care are a factor. In 1933, the number of hospital beds in the country was sufficiently large to give each one of our 132,000,000 people in the United States 2.9 days of hospitalization each. In 1943, our facilities are such that we could, if they were equally distributed, give to each one of our people 4.6 days of hospitalization each year. Facilities, as measured in terms of beds, have increased by 58 per cent. Utilization of the facilities has increased even more pronouncedly, since in this 10 year period it has increased by 94 per cent.

The explanation of these great increases in the 10-year period lies of course in the development of the government hospitals. To quote again from the same source as above:

> "In 1933, 67.6 per cent of our hospital beds were found in government hospitals; in 1943, 77.3 per cent of the beds were in government hospitals. Contrarywise in 1933, the non-government hospitals offered 32.4 per cent of the hospital beds and in 1943, only 22.7 per cent. With reference to the patients admitted to government and non-government hospitals, in 1933, 30.6 per cent and in 1943, 40.7 per cent of the hospital patients were found in government hospitals, while in 1933, 69.4 per cent and in 1943, 59.3 per cent of the patients were in non- government hospitals. The breakdown of the patient census in terms of percentages shows relative stability since in 1933, 77.2 per cent of the raily census was found in government hospitals and 22.8 per cent in non-government hospitals, while in 1943, the corresponding percentages were 78.2 per cent and 21.8 per cent. In absolute figures however, it is startling to note that in 1943, there were in excess of 300,000 more patients in the daily census of the government hospitals than in 1933."

It is well known that the increase in the number of hospitals under government control is due largely to the increase of facilities in the federally controlled hospitals.

> "The largest increase in the government hospital group has taken place in the federal hospitals. Federally controlled hospitals have increased their bed capacities from 75,635 beds in 1933 to 476,673 beds in 1943, whereas during the same period the increase in state-controlled hospitals amounted to only 150,000 beds and the increase in other governmentally controlled hospitals, such as municipally controlled hospitals, amounted to only 30,000 beds. In 1933, the beds in federally controlled hospitals constituted 10.8 per cent of the beds in all government hospitals; in 1943, 37.4 percent, while state-controlled hospitals dropped from 66.3 per cent to 47.8 per cent during this ten year period and other governmentally controlled hospitals dropped from 22.9 per cent to 14.8 per cent of the bed capacities of all governmentally controlled hospitals."

Measuring the Catholic hospital field against the general background of the total hospital field (see Table I), we will find that the situation here being discussed has already had its effects on the statistical importance of the Catholic hospital. In 1933, our Catholic hospitals in the United States contained 10 per cent of all hospital beds; in 1943 they constituted only 6.25 per cent of all hospital beds. It is noteworthy, nevertheless, that, as far as the number of institutions is concerned, the Catholic hospitals are maintaining their relative proportion, constituting 10 per cent of the number of institutions throughout the entire 10-year period. With reference to the number of patients, however, it must be pointed out that in 1943 our Catholic hospitals cared for 2,548,727 patients, a number which represents 16.3 per cent of the patients admitted to all the institutions. It is significant that this percentage of patients is cared for in only 7 per cent of all hospitals and in only 6.25 per cent of the total number of hospital beds. The percentage which the patients cared for during the last year in Catholic hospitals are of all the patients is somewhat smaller than it was in 1937, the first year for which we have reliable statistics on this point. In that year 20.3 per cent of the patients of the country were cared for in Catholic hospitals. During 1943 the number of patients in all hospitals reached 15,374,698, of which number 2,347,-185 were reported as the increased number in federal hospitals. If the latter number is subtracted from the total number of patients, making the statistics comparable with those presented for previous years, it can be shown that our Catholic institutions during 1943 cared for 19.2 per cent of all the patients admitted.

In the non-government hospital field, the Catholic hospital is maintaining its statistical importance with reference to the number of patients admitted. That percentage has varied, relatively little when the statistics from 1936 and 1943 are compared, the percentage being 28 per cent. Comparing our institutions with the church-controlled hospitals, a loss must be reported. In 1936 our institutions admitted 76.8 per cent of the patients admitted to the church-controlled hospitals. During 1943 they admitted 71.4 per cent.

In view of all the foregoing, it may be appropriate, here, to quote the comments made in the President's Address already referred to.

"We have never held a numerical leadership in the whole history of hospital service in the United States. Now, however, that our numerical proportion is becoming even smaller than it was, the obligation to achieve and to maintain constantly higher levels of hospital service for the purpose of safeguarding the objectives of that service becomes proportionately greater. Our Catholic hospitals have a serious situation confronting them, a situation which involves greater responsibilities for our Sisterhoods, a deepening of our spiritual and educational ideals, constant concern for an increase in the number of religious vocations and an even greater concern to seize every opportunity of giving service wherever and whenever the wise and loving Providence points out to us new fields for the exercise of our zeal. The rural areas need the Sisters. Fortunately, more than two thirds of the hospitals which have been added to the list of Catholic hospitals during the last ten years are located in areas where before there was no Catholic hospital. Many of these have been taken over by the Sisters from those who have found it impossible to conduct them advantageously since they realized the great advantage which our Sisters have in the management of such institutions. It is most gratifying to point out not only that these rural Sister hospitals are meeting with the utmost success and are giving great satisfaction, but also that they have achieved results which have apostolic significance. Misunderstandings concerning the Church have been dispelled, grievances have been adjusted, ignorance has been enlightened, and in general, the work of Christ has been promoted by those intrepid pioneering hospital nuns who have had the courage to start anew, sometimes under conditions that would have deterred any except those actuated by the sublimest motives of self-sacrifice for a cause. The time has come to make earnest pleas for the enlargement of the Catholic hospital field."

II. The Catholic School of Nursing

If we apply to the schools of nursing the motto which was suggested for a study of the hospitals; namely, "Wartime Preparation for the Post-War," we are confronted with a situation which, in many regards, is more complicated than that confronting us in the hospital field. The reason for this is the fact that in the professional field of nursing, there are found, today, situations which are mutually contradictory. On the one hand, we have a well recognized and perhaps a well defined shortage of nurses in many areas of the country. On the other hand, there are undoubtedly more nurses engaged in professional activity today than at any time in the nation's history. Probably, also, there are more students in schools of nursing today than at any other time; and yet there is a well recognized need for a constantly, intensified recruitment program. Accepting this as a more or less accurate wartime summary of the situation, it would surely challenge the ability of any student to draft post-war policies with reference to nursing and nursing education as based on today's situation.

In all the schools of nursing today, there are probably not fewer than 112,000 students, twenty thousand more than there were in 1938, and about 35,000 more than there were in 1929. Since 1929, the number of schools of nursing has decreased to a noteworthy degree. In that year, there were in excess of 2,000 schools. In 1943, the number of schools is probably not much greater than 1,300.

Trends similar to those in the general field are also identifiable in the Catholic school of nursing field. The number of schools of nursing has been reduced since 1929 from 429 to 382 in 1943. The percentage of the whole field represented by the Catholic schools, however, remains approximately the same. Today, our Catholic schools represent 29.2 per cent of all the schools. With reference to the number of student nurses, our Catholic schools in 1943 had an enrollment of 32,090 of student nurses, 28.6 per cent of all student nurses.

The average enrollment of all the schools, therefore, has greatly increased. In 1929, it was 35.2 students per school; in 1943, it was 85.3 students per school. In our Catholic schools of nursing, the average enrollment of the schools in 1929 was 51.7; in 1933, the enrollment had dropped somewhat, being 49.5 students per school, only to rise again in 1938, when it reached 64.7 students per school. During 1943, the average enrollment in our Catholic schools was 90.1.

The Catholic school of nursing in Canada, relatively speaking, has not changed, the number of schools remaining constant though there has been a noteworthy increase in the number of student nurses. Of the 175 schools of nursing in Canada, 76 or 43.4 per cent are conducted by various groups of Sisters. Enrolled in the schools of nursing of Canada on February 1, 1944, were 11,359 students, of which number at the end of 1943, 5,019 had registered in the 76 Catholic schools of nursing in Canada. The average enrollment in all Canadian schools of nursing approximates 64.8 students per school, whereas for the Catholic schools in this country, the average is 66 student nurses. The average size of the schools has increased from 47.6 student nurses per school in 1929 to its present enrollment level.

The trend in our Catholic schools since 1933, with reference to the total enrollment of students, deserves considerable study. Table II illustrates trends in enrollment. In 1933, 217 or 53 per cent of our schools had a student body of 50 students or fewer. The percentage had dropped to 43.2 by 1938. In 1943, however, only 24.6 per cent of our schools; namely, 94 schools, were smaller than 50 students. By way of contrast in 1933, 32 or 7.8 per cent, had student enrollments between 101 or more. By 1943, 31.8 per cent of our schools had such enrollments. Even more striking is the fact that, whereas, in 1933 there were no schools with 200 or more students, there were in 1943 as many as 20 such schools; and 2 of these have enrollments in excess of 300 students.

As far as possible, the arrangement and coding in all of these directories is uniform, so that the use of these directories will be facilitated.

2. The Arrangement of Hospital Directory

Again we are using a vertical arrangement for the pages. This has necessitated the use of at least two and sometimes more lines for each of the hospitals, so that significant data might be adequately presented. The hospitals are listed by state, the states being arranged in alphabetical order and within each state the names of the cities and towns are again sub-alphabetized. The hospitals in a given locality, city, or town are listed in their respective alphabetical order the same arrangements prevailing for the provinces and other political divisions of Canada.

The dioceses in which the various hospitals are located are set out to the right of the name of the city or town. The full name and address of the hospital falls in the second column. Special attention must be called to the next column in which a code number appears which refers to the full name and other information of the Sisterhood or Brotherhood conducting the institution. The lists of these Sisterhoods and Brotherhoods together with pertinent data appear in Tables X and XI. The year in which the hospital was established follows in another column and immediately to the right there appears a double column listing the number of beds and bassinets together with, in a line immediately below, a series of symbols descriptive of the institution's status, facilities, and activities. The name of the superintendent of the hospital and of the director of nurses follows in another column, the latter's name being indented in the typesetting. Finally, in the last column, we find the name of the chief of staff and of the chaplain of the institution.

3. The Hospital Directory Code

Due to the necessity of conserving space and the further necessity of making significant data easily available to the reader, compilers of directories find themselves forced to abbreviate the information which they supply to the student and the reader. The establishment of a code has been found the most usable technique, first of all, in condensing a large amount of information into a small place and secondly in making the meaning of a directory easily clear. Persons consulting this directory should give a few moments' study to the symbols, so that the directory may be found more serviceable. The reader, however, may be assured that every effort has been made by the editors to anticipate the purposes of those who consult these pages.

The code used in this directory is the following:
(Placed after the street address)

- a A.C.S. Fully Approved

7. The Arrangement of the School of Nursing Directory

Previously, we have described the arrangement of the hospital directory. We have also indicated that an effort is made to develop uniform arrangement for the convenience of the reader. Accordingly, it will be found that the Directory of Catholic Schools of Nursing is presented vertically. In the first column will be found the names of the state and city or town in which the school is located. The states are arranged alphabetically, similarly, the cities and towns within a state. In the second column will be found the name and address of the school. The column which follows has been reserved for a code number to designate the Sisterhood or Brotherhood conducting the school. The list of these Sisterhoods and Brotherhoods may be found in Table X and XI. The year of establishment of the school is reported in the next column, while immediately to the right the capacity of the hospital to which the school of nursing is attached is reported and on the line below opposite the address of the school, space is provided for the insertion of symbols which describe some of the facilities and activities of the school. Following this, the student enrollment is reported. In the next column the name of the director of the school is printed. Finally, space has been provided for the school's educational affiliation, there being given the name and address of the university or college with which the school of nursing is affiliated, and in a special column the year in which the affiliation was effected.

8. The School of Nursing Directory Code

As in previous years, the editors have followed the technique of devising a code or series of symbols to indicate the status of the school, to provide information concerning the school's facilities, and to designate, too, some of the activities of the school. Except for a few items for which special notes appear below, the code is the same for Canada and the United States schools. These symbols are as follows:

(Placed after the street address of the Agency)

- a A.C.S. Fully Approved
- a^1 A.C.S. Provisionally Approved
- b A.M.A. Internship Approval (In the U. S.) (In Canada the Canadian Medical Association — C.M.A., approves and recommends hospitals for internships.)
